GUN BATTLE WITH RUM GANG; 3 ARRESTS

Four prohibition agents and half a dozen rum runners engaged in a pistol battle on Newbury turnpike near York, Me., before dawn today. There were no casualties, although 14 shots were exchanged. The pistol duel followed the halting of two booze cars and the arrest of three men, a fourth man escaping. Two other machines drew near as the arrests were made, their occupants opening fire. Agents Goodrich, Aldrich and Jordan of Massachusetts, and Weaver of Maine.

DOYLE TELLS OF BERMAN 'AUCTION'

Here is "Jim" Doyle's version of the famous auction scene in Daniel H. Conkley's office in October, 1916, when Meyer Beriman, proprietor of the old Higgins Oyster House, was called to settle the injured feelings of a husband of a woman who had been indicted while a Higgins House guest.

Doyle James H. Doyle, former member of the State legislature. He was called as a witness when Conkley brought his defense today in Beriman's suit to recover $10,000 which he alleges was nothing more than a plain shake down. "Beriman was very much excited. He said, 'I want to settle this case. I want to get that book back. (The seized register) I don't want publicity. My son Louis is at Harvard and such is in the lumber business, and I am an officer in the synagogues and I will lose my reputation if there is publicity.' "His offered Corcoran $10,000 and then $20,000, and Corcoran said, 'I will kick your head off for making such a cheap offer yourself.' "Corcoran said, 'I would not pay them a nickel. What do you think, Meyer?' That $20,000 grows on trees!"

PEACEMAKER DOYLE. "I tried to pacify them," continued Doyle. "This conversation was while Mr. Corcoran and Mr. Conkley were trying to reach terms in the library. I told Corcoran he ought to pay his one-third share and save the hotel losses. "I said if one lost the license they would have a holier and have a scrap with Beriman, said, 'All right, I will go through and pay my third.' "When Beriman offered $20,000 to Corcoran I said to him: 'What in the hell did you come to Conkley's office for if you were going to do all the talking?' When Conkley joined in with Corcoran he told Beriman that he had made it very hard for him to make a satisfactory settlement by butting in and offering so much. "Conkley told Corcoran that he ought to come off his high horse and that he would have a hard time proving a case against his client. I continued on Page 2, Col. 4.

The losses incurred by Tucker, Anthony & Company, State street bankers and brokers through the delinquencies of four employees of the firm will not exceed $100,000, according to a preliminary audit of the books. DR. ROBB PLEADS GUILTY TO ILLEGAL SURGERY IN DEATH CASE

BACK MOTHER OF 4 COL. FORBES IS SHOT; DYING CRITICALLY ILL

The doctor was granted by Judge James B. Sullivan. Whether or not Dr. Robb will sue the charge is not known. A preliminary indictment charges him with being an accessory "before the fact."

In the words of layman, Dr. Wm. Robb, means that Mrs. Wolchendorf, caught in a delicate condition, which proved an embarrassing predicament as she had been separated from her husband for more than a year, had gone to Brockton and consulted with Dr. Robb.

He, the State charges, sent her to Dr. Robb for an operation.

Deaths followed and Robb, peace-loving, made way with the body.

From the trunk on the back of a new sport car he hurried two suitcases to his office. There he discovered the body, then stuffed it into the case. This was just before

PROVED MYSTERY.

In a third case he stuffed the victim's head.

Spending to the Tynsboro bridge, he left the dropped two cases into the Merrimack River. A few days later the State cases were found.

The third case has never been located.

DR. WOLCHENDORF. Mrs. Alice M. Wolchendorf.

For two weeks the case was the puzzle crime mystery. New England had had since the war, Robb had wanted to his Brock Bay office would be safe and that his work would never be discovered. But then came a man one day who had been friendly with the victim.

He was William F. Brown, age 38, a Bridgewater realtor. He had accompanied Mrs. Wolchendorf to within a block of Robb's office.

Unknown to her he had slipped behind and watched her enter the physician's apartment. This was the last time she was seen alive.

DOCTOR SURRENDERS.

He returned to ask Robb where she was. Robb fled the city. Then police were informed and the physician came out of hiding and surrendered. He was indicted for first degree murder.

Today Robb appeared relaxed as he was in court with the strain of waiting for an end.

his good wife, Elizabeth. Also his four children.

They remained in Stenham while he roamed.

In the West he jumped, late the army. While soldiering he met and married Minnie Jessemberg in Waterville, Me.

It was bigamous, of course, as he had never divorced the wife who four times went into the "Yellow Shadow" to bear him children.

SENDS WIFE A MESSAGE.

He got out of the army and brought Minnie to a shack on Shore road on the Malrose Highlands-Brookline line.

Late Thursday he shaved off his mustache. Then, taking out a big Colt automatic pistol, said to Minnie: "If you hear any shooting, don't mind; I'm going to pump a couple of the case for practice."

About the time he was telling that to Minnie, his wife, Elizabeth, got this message:

"Don't be in Haver Avenue, Malrose Highlands, tonight. We'll see you tomorrow night."

Minnie heard shots and somebody stumbling across a body in Haver Avenue. It is that of the little mother.

WIFE IS DYING.

Instead of standing on the three hold of a new life she was at the door of death.

Police lifted her into an ambulance, three bullets in her body. Her head struck from a bulleting by a revolver butt.

"It cannot be," she murmured, "reaching consciousness for a moment, "and I thought we were going to be so happy." Then she lapsed into a coma. At Malrose Hospital her death is expected within an hour this evening. He went to mail a letter to his mother.

CAN'T BELIEVE IT.

The woman went into a frenzy.

"Another wife. Robb had no other wife, no children. It's a lie. Why, when he came back from mailing the letter he took Minnie by the arm and called me his darling. No man could have shot another and done that."

But Benson was taken away. With him his automobile pistol, now hidden in the house, with three shells expended.

Taken to the Malrose Hospital to confront his dying wife, he looked unshaken.

"I've got you have done it!"

In Malrose Court, where he was arraigned today, three sons, Robert, Walter and James, saw their father for the first time in the remembrance. Robert was three when Benson left his household to tramp on life.

It is terrible, the boy cried, looking him-eyed at his father, "Mamma told me last night she was going to bring papa home. We danced with joy because we knew mamma had come and home many times."

IGNORES CHILDREN.

The prisoner-killer evinced as little interest in his children as he had in his dying mother. He didn't even ask the Anna, first born, five, a high school sophomore.

Benson was charged with assault with a dangerous weapon, in intent to kill, and was held in $10,000 bail December 11.

Mrs. Benson and her husband separated nine years ago, just before the birth of their youngest son. Since then Benson has been arrested twice on non-support charges, in September, 1917, and in February, 1918. After that he disappeared and went to Montana.

Who narrated by Captain Heston and Patrolmen Lloyd and Heston, told the police that when he had been in Montana several years he was informed that absence from his wife in another State for several years constituted a divorce, and that he felt free to remarry.

RENNON MARRIES AGAIN.

He said he returned East two years ago, went to Waterville, Ct., and there married Minnie Jessemberg, with whom he has been living on Shore road, Golden Hills, Malrose Highlands.

The Jessemberg woman, now in a delicate condition, told the police she was married to Benson two years ago in Waterville and that she had had no reason to believe the marriage was illegal.

According to the police, Benson was first recognized in Malrose two days ago. He wrote several letters to Mrs. Benson who gave the letter to her father, James McCall, of Alton Avenue, Brookline. The letters are now in the hands of the police, who refuse to reveal their contents.

KISSED CHILDREN GOOD-NITE.

Apparently Mrs. Benson had left her home with the intention of meeting Benson, as she told Patrolmen Lloyd and Heston, who saw her good-night, told them she was going to meet their father, and left the house. The children are four: Robert, twelve; Walter, ten; and James, nine.

GRILL COAKLEY ABOUT DOYLE

he went to court. Mr. Coakley said that the only aspect that bothered him about the case was the possibility that the affair might reach the ears of the Licensing Board and that the hotel might lose its license.

Doyle was examined by Coakley. His version of the famous auction scene had to do with what followed the seizure of the Higgins House register on orders of District Attorney Pelletier who acted as a commodore William J. "Big Bill" Corcoran then district attorney of Middlesex County.

Corcoran in the case acted for the griddle husband, supposed to have been a Cambridge resident although witnesses have testified to having been unable to get track of his residence there.

Continuing Doyle said:

"When Mr. Corcoran entered Coakley's office Mr. Coakley said 'What's the story about the hotel register, Bill?' Later on in the conversation Corcoran referred to the hotel as a 'joint' and not a hotel."

Doyle testified that he had advised $100 to loan Gordon and Berman when they bought the hotel from the Joyce Brothers and that they were his best customers. He said this was his custom to advance funds to a firm going into business if he thought they were dependable, in order to get their trade.

FEARED REPUTATION

"They told me District Attorney Pelletier had sent an officer for the hotel register and when they went to Pelletier's office he told them Mr. Corcoran had asked him to get it."

"Corcoran said Berman had introduced his client's wife to a man at the hotel and that they had registered and gone to a room together. Berman said that he had introduced any man to women. He said he recalled that the woman in question frequented the hotel with a certain man, and on the day complained of Berman said the man entered the hotel alone and told him the woman was there."

"When Corcoran demanded $50,000 for settlement for the woman's husband, Berman said that he would give him $10,000 and Corcoran laughed."

"Berman got excited. He said he wanted to settle the case and get rid of it right away. He said he did not want publicity and that his reputation at the synagogue would be ruined."

"Berman then offered $25,000. Corcoran told him to make it $20,000. Louis Berman spoke up and said that Berman would look his father's head off for making such an offer."

"Berman admitted they had two registers at the hotel."

"One of these contained only a few names. The other contained many names and they were afraid the police might get this and find out they were violating the law."

$10,000 FROM BREWERS

He said all the hard liquor used at the hotel was supplied by him. He said "There was a great deal of trouble at the hotel while Mr. Coakley had settled as an attorney and counsel for the establishment."

Mr. Coakley denied at the close of his direct testimony that there was any talk about indictment when the hotel register was taken, adding, "The indictment talked was manufactured expressly for the trial."

Attorney Gurnea objected to this remark and Judge White ordered it stricken from the records.

On the other hand, Browne Company, which sold the hotel here, advanced $10,000. "I understood so, but I had nothing to do with the changing over of the hotel by Berman and Gordon four years ago. I did not become their counsel until later."

Q.—Did Doyle take a financial interest in the Higgins House? A.—No.

Q.—Did you act for Gordon after he took control of the hotel? A.—Yes.

Q.—And the place was closed? A.—Yes, on complaint of the police and the Watch and Ward Society.

Q.—That was by action of the district attorney, was it? A.—No. It was the result of a conference he, the police and the Watch and Ward.

Today

Calvin Coolidge Talks.
Strong, Blunt Message.
He Knows What He Wants.
And He Tells You.

Current Events

By Arthur Brisbane

A PRESIDENTIAL message, telling Congress what the President thinks it should do and over the head of Congress telling the people why the President thinks he ought to be re-elected, must cover many points.

President Coolidge's message deals with foreign affairs, money, prohibition, education, our islands, army and navy, coal, Alaska, Shoaik, farmers, the bonus, immigration, taxes, railroads, merchant marine, budget, foreign debts, World Court, negroes, Russia, highways, forests, etc.

ALL that ground President Coolidge covers in a message that has the merit of being free from high flying oratory, and the greater merit of being perfectly blunt, outspoken, unmistakable in its meaning.

YOU OBSERVE first of all that there is not a word that could offend any rich man. The most important word of all is to cut down taxation, says the President. That will please the men with big incomes. For while they have not actually been paying the heavy taxes, it is sure they have, even to think about them.

THE PRESIDENT fully re-joins the bonus for soldiers. That at least shows political courage, and will cost many a vote. Perhaps those that would have been taxed to pay the bonus will make up for the lost soldier votes, but that's doubtful.

THE FARMER is told that he is doing pretty well on the whole, eleven of his staple products having increased in value from five billions three hundred millions to seven billions. As our farmer talks to another, Mr. Coolidge tells the farmer he must vary his crops. The man in North Dakota would say, "Come out here and do it."

THE PRESIDENT thinks farmers will profit "indirectly" by reduction of taxation. He says, when he hasn't any income to tax.

On the whole, the farmer must look out for himself. The President says, "No complicated scheme of relief, no plan for government fixing of prices, no resort to the public treasury will be of any permanent value in establishing agriculture."

THE FARMERS will recall that the drastic government fixing of prices, freight rates and passenger rates did a great deal to re-establish railroads. But apparently there is one political economy for railroads, another for farmers.

THE PRESIDENT recommends, "consolidation of the freight rate structure which would reduce charges on farm production." He suggests railroad consolidation, a most recent suggestion.

MOST IMPORTANT to the farmer, Mr. Coolidge says, "Cheap fertilizers must be provided," and he recommends the sale of Muscle Shoals. This means probably that he will encourage the sale of the existing 1924 Ford problem, by letting Ford have Muscle Shoals and see what he can do in the way of producing cheap fertilizers.

THE PRESIDENT is against the League of Nations, but in favor of the World Court, "intended to include the whole world." To some Americans that will sound like saying, "I am opposed to empires, but I am in favor of world peace." That part of the message will please Hiram Johnson, and relieve McAdoo, who probably thinks the people won't see much difference between a League of Nations delegating things for the United States and a World Court delegating them for the United States.

CONCERNING immigration the President says, "America must be kept for Americans. Those who do not want to be part of the American people must go to settle in America." That's what our Indians were told on Page 15, Column 2.

BROKERS' LOSS PISTOL BATTLE $100,000 WITH RUM GANG

Statements were made previously that they were acting for the "higher up," and had made false entries in the books under orders from persons in authority. The audit party completed was made by the bonding company which furnished surety for the employees. It is believed that their hands will fly over the firm's losses. The police have been kept in touch with the affair, but are waiting for persons connected with the firm to make a formal complaint before asking for arrest warrants. Killian H. Claffin, Jr., a member of the firm, stated that the reason the defendants were not arrested was that the plot was discovered early and "nipped in the bud."

BERGOLL PLOTTERS FACE JAIL

Hughes Leads World Court Drive

Girls Are Driven From Home By Misunderstanding Mothers

DOES BROTHER'S DANKERS

Move to Force Through Senate "Twin Brother" of League of Nations

By JOHN T. LAMBERT

Washington, Dec. 7 (C.N.S.)

A desperate drive to force the World Court through the Senate was started here today on the heels of President Coolidge's message.

Secretary of State Hughes is in the forefront of the drive. He has been camping on the White House front steps for four weeks. Secretary Hoover is with him. Ellis Root has his shoulder to the wheel.

The organized banking forces of the country will throw the strength of their lobby behind Hughes, Hoover and Root to protect their own investments in foreign bonds and to secure the underwriting profits which will come from the taxation of new loans.

Despite the 7,800,000 majority in 1920, under which the foreign entanglements proposals were buried, Mr. Hughes is determined to force the World Court out of the foreign relations committee and to get a vote on it in the Senate before next Fall's election.

THE SIAMSE TWINS

Senator Lodge will have to bear the brunt of the unusual pressure which will be brought to bear. President Coolidge is not disposed to believe the World Court will stand up before this Senate. To force it through he will be obliged to abandon his important domestic policies. But that he is not willing to do. He believes he will have to face the public on what he is able to accomplish on the important problems here.

He believes in a court. He decided to tell the country so and there let the issue drop. The Senate will get no interference from him on it.

The present disposition of Senator Lodge and his colleagues on the Foreign Relations Committee is to let the World Court continue to walk around in H. sleep until it dies from inattention.

The permanent court of international justice was created by the League. It is maintained by the League. He judges are paid by the League. He principal business is to interpret the covenant of the League. The court and the League are Siamese twins.

Senator Lodge will be grateful to anyone who can step right up and explain how the court can be adopted without the League. Mr. Wilson formed the League and got a lot of foreign countries to go into it, including the Kingdom of Hades. The United States declined to go in.

TREATIES TO BE MADE

Senator Lodge believes that this country has got to go into the World Court of the League of Nations or keep out of it. There is no other court that can be created from the whimsical substitutes that have been offered. President Coolidge insists that it must have no contact with the League.

Policewoman McAuliffe Cites Case of Janet, Who Could Not Get Companionship She Craved and Came to Hub

This is the fifth of a series of articles written for the Boston American by the policewoman of Boston. In today's article Irene McAuliffe tells the absorbing story of Janet, the girl who made good.

By IRENE MCALIFFE

Boston's "Newman, Formerly of Washington, D. C. police.

Since starting this series of articles some of my friends have questioned me about the article in which I stated that one of the chief causes for girls running away can be found in the home. In today's article I will tell you about Janet, a Washington girl, who illustrates that point perfectly.

Janet lived in one of the suburbs of Washington when I was with that department. Her mother was a well-to-do widow, owning her home and she had a comfortable income.

Apparently Janet had everything that the ordinary girl could wish. Her mother put her through high school, dressed her beautifully and apparently did everything that a loving mother is supposed to do. But she lacked just one thing—and it was that which gave her many unhappy and anxious hours and eventually caused her to lose her pretty daughter.

WEEK END TRIPS

Janet got in with the wrong set in her town. There were fifty girls several years older who thought weekend trips to New York and Philadelphia were good fun. They induced Janet to go along. Janet's mother knew the companions of her daughter were not the right sort, but she thought it quite all right, and that nothing harmful would come out of the trips.

Janet became acquainted with the wrong kind of men on these trips. She did not tell her mother of these acquaintances. What happened on those trips she kept within her own breast.

Then, without warning, Janet disappeared. Janet's mother was up in arms. She telegraphed and got a lot of foreign countries to go into it, including the Kingdom of Hades. The United States declined to go in.

FOUND IN HOTEL

I walked the streets of Washington watching for her day after day. Then we learned she had been found in New York. I went to New York and brought her back.

In New York I learned that she had been found at one of the "funny business" is tolerated. This girl of but seventeen years had established herself in a two-room suite and was busy engaged in seeking employment. Seeking a regular job. If you please, one paying big money. She had adorned the walls of the two rooms with a dozen small, little pictures and was in a fair way to make it look like home.

"Well, youngster," I said, "what about it, tell me the story." "My mother said I am a companion," said the girl calmly. "I am well educated and I know that there is a whole lot to life that I never encountered if I stay at home with my mother. She will not talk to me as I feel a mother should. She does not see the things in life as I see them."

"STAYING AT HOME"

"She will not listen to me when I attempt to tell her of me. I am starving to death at home for real companionship. And I can't get it from my mother. Oh, she loves me, but she is not a mother. I am a companion. I admit. But there is something better to love."

"I admit I have started off wrong."

IRENE MCALIFFE

I did. But it wasn't as bad as you think. I borrowed the money from a man friend. I gave nothing in return. He just wanted to let me have a try at life on my own. I am going to get a job. I can do big things if I have the opportunity."

"But your mother wants you back," I objected.

Janet didn't want to go back, but I took her.

Some time later I left Washington and entered the Boston police department. I forgot all about little Janet whom I had last seen safely at home with her loving, but uncompanionable mother.

MAKES GOOD IN RUB

Just a few weeks ago I was walking along Tremont street. I stopped to look at a particularly glittering window display in one of the large shop windows. Someone touched me on the shoulder and said: "Aren't you that lady detective?" Yes—I was Janet.

Janet had left Washington and her mother and had come to Boston. "The chief paramour's clerk in one of Boston's big manufacturing institutions now," she said as she smiled happily. "I'm getting $155 a month salary, and there is no limit to my possibilities. Isn't Boston a wonderful town, though?"

You see Janet had made good. Her mother had finally seen the light and Janet is no longer listed as missing. She happens to be one of the lucky girls who struck it right.

But where there is one Janet I can see many more. There are dozens of Gretinas, Beasles and Coras and Violetas of whom we never get a trace. And scores of them have left home for the same reason that sent Janet out into the world.

BERGOLL KIDNAPERS FACE JAIL

Long Terms Urged for Americans in Plot to Seize Nebel Noted Draft Dodger

Mosbach, Baden, Dec. 7 (C.N.S.)

Sentences of three years each for Corlies Holvoet Griffin of Hamilton, O., and Karl Sperber of Paris, one year for the Russian Prince Faust Gagarin and six months for Eugene Victor Nelson of Chicago were recommended today by St. Petersburg Nebel to the court which is trying these prisoners for the attempt to kidnap Governor Cleveland Bergdoll, American drafts evader, at Eberbach last August. Bergdoll's counsel contended these terms were insufficient punishment.

JANET HAS MADE GOOD and asked the court for heavier sentences, especially for Griffin and Nelson.

Attorney Nebel contended that the United States government was largely responsible for the attempt to remove Bergdoll illegally. He expressed the opinion that it would be wise if the Americans, in the interests of peace, abandoned "this everlasting man hunt" for Bergdoll.

He asserted Germany's sovereignty had been disregarded and violated and that the Americans had taken advantage of Germany's position since the loss of the war and was weak and virtually down and out.

"If the American government desires the extradition of Bergdoll, why does it not take steps through the proper channels," the attorney asked.

He declared Griffin and his fellow-defendants should thank the Eberbach police that they were not lynched on the night of August 19 by a mob of infuriated citizens.

COOLIDGE REFERENCE TO GERMAN PLEASEING

Paris, Dec. 7 (C.N.S.)—France subscribes to the formula in President Coolidge's message to the effect that France must be paid and Germany must live. It was said by a high official at the French Foreign Office today. He added that the declaration's message had made a most agreeable impression there.

As to President Coolidge's declaration on the international war debt, he said the French position was well known and that there was nothing in the American President's statement in conflict with it.

TAX-CUT PLEA IN MELLON'S REPORT

Washington, Dec. 6.—Secretary Mellon, in his annual report to Congress today, described Treasury operations under which the nation's debt had been reduced $121,071,132 in the fiscal year 1927 and again urged a sharp reduction in taxation based on rigid economy.

The report contained a copy of Mr. Mellon's letter to Acting Chairman Green, of the House and Ways and Means Committee, in which the secretary said "a further bonus would postpone tax reduction not for one but for many years to come."

Mr. Mellon's report argued for the general reduction in income taxes. He particularly stressed the advantage he has predicted would come from cutting surplus taxes upon large incomes to a maximum of 25 per cent, on the ground that it would actually increase government income, and indirectly benefit the public by reducing burdens on productive operations.

$375,000,000 NEXT YEAR

The government, "fairly established on the basis of balancing its budget each year," Mr. Mellon said, "brought the national debt, once at a figure of over $25,000,000,000, down to $12,082,209,000 on October 31. The record, he said, was brought about "only by the most rigid economy and the application of business principles to the government's finances."

On the present basis of taxation and expenditures, he cited an estimated Treasury surplus next July of about $22,000,000, and a possible surplus in the year after of $25,000,000.

"High taxation," the report continued, "even if levied upon an economic basis, affects the prosperity of the country, because in its ultimate analysis the burden of all taxes rests only in part upon the individual or property taxed. It is borne by the ultimate consumer."

"High taxation means a high price level and high cost of living. It can easily be said that reduction in the excess tax reduces expenses. Not only of the 7,000,000 income tax returns but of the entire 110,000,000 people of the United States."

SOUND AND STABLE

To general business aspects Mr. Mellon directed the comment that improvement from the 1921 depression had been noted for a year, but "faint credit at reasonable rates had been available through banks, and he concluded that present activity presented the appearance of being sound and stable." The failure of agricultural sections to share in the betterment, however, was noted.

On the liquor question he said that the nation, which formerly had consumed 119,000,000 gallons of whiskey a year, had now in bonded warehouses only 45,000,000 gallons. Withdrawal from the

Progressives Lose Meeting Place on Speaker's Orders

Washington, Dec. 7.—The little band of Republican Progressives in the House of Representatives, who played organization of the House until the Old Guard Republicans yielded to their demands for further rules, are being punished.

Speaker Gillett today ordered John M. Nelson, chairman of the Progressive bloc, to vacate his office in the Capitol Building. Gillett frankly admitted Old Guard leaders insisted on taking away the meeting place of the Independents.

Further petty reprisals are expected by the Progressive bloc.

supply during the past year was only 1,700,000 gallons.

The Treasury's request for a $25,000,000 appropriation to increase the Coast Guard, the secretary said, might assist to "cut down to a minimum" the operation of the rum smugglers who seek to replace the vanished home product with the spirits of other lands.

WOMAN BRANDS TWO GIRLS WITH HOT IRONS

New York, Dec. 7.—Mrs. Josephine Foster of Coven today was arrested in Children's Court charged with torturing her two stepdaughters, Anna, nine, and Pauline, seven, with hot irons and with beating and starving them.

The woman was said to have admitted to an investigator for the Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Children that on Wednesday night she heated a knife-sharpening steel and burned her stepdaughters on the legs and arms.

The stepdaughters also were accused of compelling the children to sleep on bare wire springs, tying them to chairs and refusing them food.

Fall River, Dec. 7.—George Macmillan, 36, 445 Perry street, is at the Fall River General Hospital in poor condition as the result of burns received while working near a cup oil storage tank in the basement of a business block.

Woman Landlord Was Made Prisoner in Rent War

Worcester, Dec. 7.—The rent war at Nos. 7 and 11 Murray avenue between John and Helen Blake and their tenants produced a new skirmish.

Michael Rider, a tenant, was charged with disturbing the peace in holding Mrs. Blake a prisoner for an hour and 20 minutes in his flat. He was discharged when Judge Utley ruled the quarrel a civil matter.

Mrs. Blake testified that she went to Rider's apartment to collect the rent. Rider gave her $50 and she gave him a receipt. When the tenant discovered that the receipt was "on account" and not "in full," he seized her and refused to allow her to go, she said.

SYMPATHY AND CHARITY GO TO WASTE

Homeless, friendless and penniless, even lacking the right to wear the clothes he wore, William J. Markin, twenty, arrested by Patrolman George J. Smith, of the Joy street station, at Bowley square last night for manhandling in the uniform of the U. S. Navy, faced Judge Anderson in the U. S. District Court today, and so moved the hearts of those in the court room by his plight that it seemed he would be freed, and be given a suit of clothes in their regard.

Much as Assistant U. S. Attorney Lawrence Curtis detests manhandling in uniforms of the U. S. Army or Navy, he having lost a leg while serving in the U. S. forces during the World War, his heart was moved to pity by the tale of the youth, who was arrested and led to his last January for the same offense.

The newspaper man present, court attendants, and in fact everyone in the court room offered to take up a collection for Mr. Markin, who was formerly a U. S. bluejacket, some clothes. Chief Deputy Marshal Tighe said that he would have the Salvation Army get the young man a job. Then Markin said in tones of disgust, "Aw, I'd rather go to jail."

'SUNSHINE GIRL' TURNED GHOUL FOR LOVE

Napa, Cal., Dec. 7.—Questioning by authorities today drew from Edward Ballist, head of a "Sunshine Girl" dance band, a revealing story in which they were revealed as the alleged perpetrators of a gruesome crime in which they robbed a grave and buried a corpse while enthralled by love for each other three years ago.

It was a plot to obliterate the existence of Edward Ballist, head of a phonograph factory in San Claire, Wis., and enable him to leave the wife and children and pursue his love for the cabaret singer.

GIRL SOON OUT STORY.
Miss Anderson told her story to District Attorney Thomas C. Anglin as she lay in a hospital cot here, and this, suffering from tuberculosis. Details of the confession of the girl told to those given by Ballist after the arrest of the couple.

Ballist is being held in jail, and both he and his companion are incommunicado pending the arrival of Wisconsin authorities.

The cheerfulness which won for the subject of the "Sunshine Girl" when she was a singer and dancer in a Chicago music hall three years ago had deserted the girl as she talked with the district attorney, and she was hysterical at times.

Despite their love for each other, which persisted throughout the three years, and was unmarred by any differences, Miss Anderson said they both were worried constantly and haunted by conscience.

INTENDED NO FRAUD.
Ballist, too, has confessed.

Miss Anderson denied that she and Ballist had intended to defraud an insurance company, but contended that the hoax was carried out only that Ballist might leave his wife and children without a trial to follow.

The district attorney agreed that he did not believe the couple had intended to have the insurance collected.

She said she met Ballist in an amusement resort in Chicago, in April, 1920, and later accepted employment in the phonograph factory in Napa, Wis. She agreed to the plan to carry away, she said, and then had of being with him to the day to M. P. Fox's body and place in a real estate office which was then firm.

Insurance Paid "Widow" Cannot Be Recovered
Napa, Wis., Dec. 7.—Money paid by insurance company to Mrs. Leona Ballist Richardson on policy held by her first husband, John H. Ballist, who was found "dead," by a jury in Federal court here last Fall, cannot be recovered. It was stated by John A. Cudgill, for her Mr. Richardson. A sum of $4500 was paid by the Fidelity and Casualty Company of New York on a $10,000 policy, and $1325 was paid by the United Commercial Travelers on a $4,500 policy. Both were compromise.

Work was finally obtained for Miss Wood Wednesday of this week but when her handiwork was called on the phone she said the girl has become suddenly ill and had been taken to the City Hospital.

The Y. W. C. A. had written a letter to the parents of "Miss Dorothy Williams" in Granville. Of course there were no such people. The letter was given to another Williams family and turned over to them to the police chief. The search for Miss Wood had started by that time and the chief put two and two together and called Miss Wood's parents.

INDICT GALLIGAN FOR AUTO THEFT
Thomas "Peasie" Galligan and Harry P. Noonan, Cambridge youths, who were sentenced this week to eight and six years, respectively, to State Prison, today were indicted by the Middlesex County Grand jury on the charge of stealing an automobile containing $7000 worth of furs owned by a Chalmers street, Boston, firm.

The Grand jury also made the final report for the year to Judge J. H. Kirk. Several secret indictments were among those returned. One indictment for murder and three for attempted murder were returned.

They were: Thomas James of Lexington, charged with murdering Mike Hahn of Boston at Lexington; Leo Caruso of Boston, murderous assault with a revolver on Amy Dracena of Cambridge; Pasquale Pappalardo, charged with firing a revolver at Cosmo Grimaldi in Somerville; and Anna Lynch of Watertown, charged with assault on George Patterson.

VERMONT GIRL FOUND IN CITY HOSPITAL

Miss Caroline J. Wood, missing Pawlet, Vt., school teacher, was found today in the emergency ward of the City Hospital.

Her search for adventure and city life ended on the operating table, where her appendix was removed. Mrs. Guy Wood of Wells, Vt., the girl's mother, is now waiting to take her daughter back home.

Miss Wood left for school as usual a week ago today but took a train for Boston instead.

At the North Station she inquired the way to the Y. W. C. A. and was taken there by a young man who befriended her.

The Y. W. C. A. was filled but the girl was given the address of a room and told to come back the next day for assistance in obtaining employment.

She gave her name as Dorothy Williams of Granville, N. H. The letter was given to another Williams family and turned over to them to the police chief. The search for Miss Wood had started by that time and the chief put two and two together and called Miss Wood's parents.

Colored Man Buys Steel Lined Jail to House Fowl

New York, Dec. 7.—Clarence Ward, negro farmer at Ballport, Long Island, bought for $50 the onestory, 10 by 12 steel lined town jail that Ballport has used for twenty years. To keep my chickens in," he explained.

The building was one of half dozen owned by the town of Brookhaven. The Ballport village selectmen voted it for $19 a month, but since prohibition, it was explained, it has proved a loss.

"What will you do with the shack?" Justice of the Peace Valentine asked Ward.

"It's got other value besides housing my chickens," said Ward. "It's also bullet-proof, isn't it?"

TSEKOS DREADS NOOSE AS HE FACES TRIAL

Nurse George Teskos is probably the most disappointed man in New England.

He went on trial today at Concord, N. H., for a double murder, committed at Franklin, N. H., last August.

In view of the fact that he had been arrested in Medford, where he tried to dispose of the bodies of his wife, Nellie, and her mother, he had hoped he would be tried in Massachusetts.

The chair appears to hold few terrors for Teskos.

But the noose! At the thought of it he shudders. And in New Hampshire the death penalty means hanging.

ONE VOTE CAST IN ATLANTA PRECINCT
Atlanta, Ga., Dec. 7.—The municipal election failed to move the body politic of one precinct of the fifth ward. Only one vote was cast here among the masses of the polls at the polls. Somebody described it as a general feeling of lassitude.

Arrested for Sunday Work by man for Whom He Did Some

Fall River, Dec. 7.—Frank Mettish, on trial for Judge Huntly in the District Court for a violation of the Sunday work law by erecting a chimney, on Sunday, created a surprise when he told the court he once put up a ceiling in the house of Patrolman Silve on Sunday and, therefore, could not see why Silve should arrest him for chimney building.

LIFE INSURANCE IN U. S. SETS UP NEW RECORD

New York, Dec. 7.—The American people, so far this year, have broken all previous records in the purchase of new life insurance.

The Association of Life Insurance Presidents, opening a two-day convention here, heard this from Edward D. Duffell, president of the Prudential Life Insurance Company and chairman of the convention.

At the end of the year, the total amount of life insurance in force on American lives will be more than $15,000,000,000 and greater than all the rest of the world combined, according to Duffell.

He added that this year's purchase of new life insurance will reach $1,715,000,000, close to $2,000,000,000 more than in 1922.

How life insurance funds are invested was told by Frederick H. Ecker, vice-president of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company.

He declared there has been a noticeable decrease in demands for loans from policyholders. Insurance fund investments, he asserted, have been made in every state in the Union.

Taking the investment figure of $15,000,000,000 in life insurance companies, holding 94 per cent. of the total assets of American companies, Mr. Ecker showed they had investments in city mortgages of $1,625,000,000 and $1,625,000,000 in farm mortgages.

$500,000 FIRE IN NEW ORLEANS

New Orleans, Dec. 7.—The Newman Building, a three-story stone and brick building occupying a half square on Dryades and Gravier streets, was heavily damaged by fire today. Estimates placed the loss at $500,000.

The building was occupied principally by cotton office where large quantities of cotton samples were stored. The cotton firms burned out included: McPadden Company, William T. Hardie, Major Brothers, and H. R. Gould.

KEITH CANCELS GAMBLERS ARE ACT PLAYED BY EXILED FROM HAZEL DAWN RUSSIA

New York, Dec. 7.—The Keith Vaudeville circuit has notified Hazel Dawn that he is to be exiled from Russia.

He is to be exiled from Russia. The Keith management refused to book any vaudeville in the least suggestive. Without wishing to reflect upon the judgment of the Keith officials, I do not think there was anything indecent in Miss Dawn's sketch.

Chicago.—Arthur Van Dam, a soldier at Fort Sheridan, died yesterday from injuries received in a football game about a month ago.

Moscow, Dec. 7.—Russia has established a pale, not for Jews as to the Czarist regime, but for gamblers, dishonest speculators and citizens whose usefulness in the rebuilding of the country is questioned by officials.

Within the next few days, scores of men and their families, barred from living in Moscow, Petersburg or any of the big cities, will start for the provinces, while several dozen more will begin the long trek to the Maritime district of Siberia, the shores of the White Sea, or other distant points of exile.

A year ago a decree was issued establishing the right of administrative banishment by the Department of the Interior, but up to the past few weeks this power has been used only sparingly.

Now, however, a great wave of moral reform seems to have come over the Communist leaders, who are inclined to blame the extravagance of gamblers and speculators for the failure of some of the government's commercial enterprises.

A Petrograd dispatch announces the closing of four gambling houses. Moscow's are still open but at their last legs. It is understood the sold nearly $2,000,000 in taxes and royalties to the Moscow city government last year.

MUSSOLINI THREATENS TO SUSPEND UNIVERSITIES

Rome, Dec. 7.—Premier Mussolini threatens to close the universities for a year unless students cease their strike against reforms instituted by the Fascist government.

Professors have received orders to make students understand their agitation is useless.

"I consider the reform instituted by Signor Gentile, Minister of Education, one of the most important Fascist reforms approved by my government," he said.

At Naples several persons were wounded in a clash between students and government supporters.

RUSSIAN BEAUTY VAMPS OFFICIALS; MAKES CLEANUP

Moscow, Dec. 7.—Dina Soboleva, a young woman whose charms succeeded in cutting governmental red tape so quickly that she is alleged to have made dozens of deals, profitable to herself, between various government buying and selling organizations, is the principal character in a court trial here.

The action is the first of a series of prosecutions that have grown out of the heavy financial losses the government syndicate sustained in its first year of managing the manufacturing and merchandising departments.

BILLS PRO AND CON COOLIDGE POOR

Washington, Dec. 7 (I.N.S.)—The new Congress took its first session today while leaders of both major parties struggled to complete organization of carry lines within the House and Senate.

Conference was held by Republican and Democratic chiefs, with considerable study given to the effect of President Coolidge's first message. Party leaders also sought equally to distribute assignments on important legislative committees and share among fortunate Republicans an increased amount of congressional patronage.

The legislative effect of the President's message was startling. Out of approximately 1,500 bills already passed into the body almost legislative mills at both ends of the capital hundreds dealt directly with the President's recommendations.

Of the latter, quite as many were in direct conflict with Mr. Coolidge's proposals as were in support of the administration program.

Proposed legislation favoring the Coolidge recommendations included a comprehensive revision of immigration laws, providing new restrictions and a greater selective service, introduced by Senator Lodge in the Senate and Representative Johnson in the House.

A settlement of the racial question by creation of a Federal commission of nine members, authorized to report annually to Congress, proposed by Senator Spencer of Missouri.

Amendment of the Constitution to permit congressional enactment of anti-child labor laws, proposed by Senators Burdette and McCormick. The bill now before Congress which directly opposes the Coolidge program included:

Measures providing government fixing prices, and creation of a wheat stabilization corporation which was distinctly opposed by the President as proposed by Senator Gooding of Idaho.

A broadside attack upon the transportation act in a dozen separate bills, including a proposal for congressional legislation arbitrarily changing one-third of existing rates on "iron products," proposed by Senator Gooding and a repeal of the guarantee clause proposed by Senator Capper of Kansas.

A proposed "inkering" with the prohibition act, contrary to presidential wish, in a bill to create a commission for determining the alcoholic content of intoxicating liquors, proposed by Senator Simpson of Missouri.

The Mayor claims that scurrilous matter is contained on the cards and that they refer to scandals during the Mayor's career. The Mayor says the cards say that Mrs. Kimball pushed the Mayor's automobile up a hill, and he claims that this statement has a tendency to cheapen the Mayor's character in the eyes of the public.

Chief Inspector Hunt at the Federal Building advised Mr. Simpson to discontinue mailing the cards.

DRINK WATER IF BACK OR KIDNEYS HURT
Advertisement

Begin Taking Jad Salts if You Feel Backache

Too much rich food forms acids which excite and overwork the kidneys in their efforts to filter it from the system. Flush the kidneys occasionally to relieve them like you relieve the bowels, removing acids, waste and poison, else you may feel a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pain in the back or sick headache, dizziness, the stomach sour, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges.

To help neutralize irritating acids and wash out the body's waste, begin drinking water. Also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine and bladder disorders disappear.

This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys and stop bladder irritation. Jad Salts is inexpensive and makes a deliciously effervescent lithia-water drink which millions of men and women take now and then to help prevent serious kidney and bladder disorders.

By all means drink lots of good water every day. Have your physician examine your kidneys at least twice a year.

EARL A. CHAMBERLAIN.

Sergeant Walter Chamberlain, instructor of military science at Boston University, has asked the police to help find his son, Earl A. Chamberlain, who left his Brookline home Tuesday because he was refused parental permission to play the organ at the coronation exercises of the Gallauch Club, a church organization.

If the seventeen-year-old organist will return home to No. 314 Boylston street, Brookline, he may play at the coronation exercises as much as he wishes, Sergeant Chamberlain declares.

CORNER OF FRANKLIN

CRAIG PARDON NOT REGARDED UNCONDITIONAL

Washington, Dec. 7. (Universal)—The White House and the Department of Justice reiterate with emphasis that the form of Executive clemency extended Charles L. Craig, New York Comptroller sentenced for contempt of court, cannot be considered an unconditional pardon.

This is dwelt upon particularly in a letter from Attorney-General Daugherty to Senator Royal S. Copeland, who made the appeal for executive clemency, in sending to him the voluminous document in the case.

DAUGHERTY'S OPINION.
The Attorney-General's communication:

"As you are doubtless aware, the President on the third instant granted the application for executive clemency which you submitted recently in behalf of Charles L. Craig to the extent of remitting the imprisonment imposed by the sentence.

"As Craig did not apply in person, the warrant remitting the sentence is enclosed herewith with the letter that you deliver it to him. A certified copy is being forwarded to the United States Marshal for his records."

INCIDENT CLOSED.
The Department of Justice declares that with the forwarding of the warrant the Craig case is considered a closed incident and may be revived only in the event that Craig files an appeal to have the recommendation of Attorney-General Daugherty, in which he was bitterly denounced, withdrawn.

Examination of law and precedent revealed that the action of the President does not deprive the New York City official of any civil rights for the reason that serving the sentence would not have impaired any legal disabilities.

You Might Think From Reading the Newspapers

---that the clothing manufacturers had been so busy turning out stuff for a multitude of "sales" and special events, at all kinds of mark-up and mark-down prices that they'd had no time to produce any right merchandise at right prices for right people.

But strange as it may seem, Quality Clothes are still being produced by some reputable makers, and are still being distributed at straight prices through these Kennedy Stores to appreciative men.

And it's worthy of note that no matter how attractive the prices may appear elsewhere, if it's really Good Clothes that you want, you can always come to this Live Store and do better.

Suits and Overcoats from The House of Kuppenheimer

These choice garments need not the lure of a pseudo-sale price to make them attractive to men who know style and recognize quality and appreciate getting both at the lowest legitimate figure. The quality could not be higher at the price, nor the price lower for the quality.

WARM SPELL GRIPS LABRADOR; POPULACE PRAYS FOR WINTER

Quebec, Dec. 7.—Extraordinary weather conditions are reported along the Gulf of St. Lawrence and Labrador.

Warm winds blow; the waters still are free from ice; while ordinarily would have migrated to the South weeks ago remains; cattle graze on green pastures and the people have not changed from light clothing.

Yet the people pray for Winter. Cod fishing is almost at a standstill. The cod have moved northward into colder waters and there is a foot shortage. Such extreme suffering has resulted that the provincial government has been compelled to send a helping hand.

SHOOTS WIFE ON WAY TO CHURCH, KILLS SELF

Holyoke, Dec. 7.—Mary Bancroft hurried to early mass today. It was First Friday.

In high street, a step from the church, she met her husband, Frank, from whom she had been separated several months. He drew a gun. She shot her three times, then stepped into an alley and killed himself. She is dying in the House of Providence Hospital.

Jealousy is said to have been the motive for the tragedy. She lived at No. 15 Pine street, he at No. 115 Suffolk street. She is twenty-seven years old. He is thirty-two.

ENDS HIS OWN LIFE.
The shooting was seen by several other churchgoers and workmen. Several men ran to the injured woman and one attempted to intercept the husband as he sprang into the alley. He reached Bancroft as he pressed the gun to his head, fired and fell limp.

A priest was summoned from the church, but the man was dead. At the hospital Mrs. Bancroft's name was put on the danger list.

Little is known of the domestic difficulties which led to the tragedy today. Bancroft, knowing his wife's devotion, lay in wait for her. He intercepted her as she turned into high street. She appeared surprised and stopped back with her hands partly raised in fright.

"On don't," a man on the opposite side of the street heard her cry.

FIRES THREE BULLETS.
Bancroft's answer was to whip out a pistol and open fire. Two of the bullets went wild. The third punctured a lung.

In church, where Mrs. Bancroft was well known, attendants at mass prayed silently for her recovery. The shooting caused commotion among parishioners.

FREED FROM SPOUSE WHO CHEATED HER AT CARDS

MRS. EDITH HAFENBERGER

Society woman who divorced her husband who dealt himself most of the trump from the bottom of the pack in a game in their Chicago home.

WIFE AWARDED DIVORCE FOR DISHONESTY

A little honest game of cards between a man and his wife. A deal from the bottom of the pack. Two many trumps. And now Mrs. Edith Haffenberger, prominent Chicago society woman, has been granted a divorce by local courts as a result of her married life was full of bills. Mrs. Haffenberger told the courts, until she played a game of bridge with her husband. Then, she declares, she saw him deal from the bottom of the pack, taking most of the trump.

A suit for divorce on the ground of dishonesty followed, and Mrs. Haffenberger scored a grand slam by taking all the tricks in the divorce court.

NINE MEXICAN STATES HAVE REBELLED

Vera Cruz, Dec. 7.—Nine States of the Republic of Mexico have joined a movement against President Obregon and General P. Elias Calles, Obregon's choice as his successor in the Presidency, according to information reaching here.

The States in which the rebellion is said to have made its appearance are Vera Cruz, San Luis Potosi, Chihuahua, Michoacan, Tamaulipas, Jalisco, Sinaloa, Sonora and Oaxaca. Two columns of soldiers, aggregating between 6,000 and 8,000 men, left here on their way to Mexico City.

Late advices received in this city said that Federal troops sent out from Mexico City had established contact with Rebel forces.

The Federal soldiers have cut the railway line from the capital to Vera Cruz at a point between Malaterra and Boca del Monte.

Adolfo de la Huerta, General Calles' opponent for the Presidency, is among the deputies supporting the movement. He has addressed a manifesto to the nation setting forth his reasons for opposing President Obregon.

Oregon Confers With Cabinet

proceeding immediately to Chapultepec Castle where he began conference with members of his Cabinet in regard to the situation. The only statement the executive would make was: "The country will be pacified and the rebellion put down with an iron hand."

PAROLE VOTED TO O'DALY AS XMAS GIFT

Thomas J. O'Daly, former cashier of the Boston City treasury, whose larceny of $40,000 of city funds was discovered in 1921 just as he was about to be made city treasurer, and who was sentenced to from three to five years in State Prison, will be a free man before Christmas.

The State Board of Parole and Pardon voted to release him from the Rutland Prison, Chap and Hospital Dec. 29, where he will be brought.

eligible for parole. He was sentenced June 21, 1921, and under the law, with time off for good behavior, he will be eligible to parole after two and one-half years.

Either because of his personality or because of the heart-breaking circumstances of his case, O'Daly was the object of tremendous public sympathy even during the days when he was on trial for stealing the police money.

The sympathy reached a climax shortly after the beginning of his sentence, when he became a victim of tuberculosis, and was sent from prison to the Rutland camp.

O'Daly did not cultivate this attitude, particularly. Steadfastly during the trial, he refused to talk or to involve others. To this day it is not known where the missing money went. It is generally believed that O'Daly spent it in the stock market.

ELOPERS HOME, WED; BRIDE FORGIVEN

Providence, Dec. 7.—John F. Wentworth and his bride of six days, the former "Dapper" Clement, who eloped Sunday afternoon, returned to the bride's home, where Dr. and Mrs. Henry W. Clement severely scolded them and then welcomed them home and "forgave them all."

Young Wentworth, a Brown University athlete, recently fell heir to $100,000. He will receive another $50,000, now held in trust, in April. He intends to establish his home in Boston and to engage in the real estate business.

HOLD ELOPING CHAUFFEUR IN LOVE TANGLE

George H. Tustin, a chauffeur, of No. 17 London street, and Mrs. Laura Ford of No. 123 Spring street, Cambridge, who eloped in an automobile recently.

Mary Tustin Baby Tustin

each desiring a family of several children, have returned after a trip to New York and Montreal.

And as soon as the police learned of their return, they trailed Tustin to the home of a relative in Medford and arrested him on a charge of neglect of his wife and their two children.

Charged with neglect of his wife, Tustin was arraigned in Somerville Court today, pleaded guilty and was held in $1,000 for sentence December 18. He was taken to East Cambridge Jail.

When the couple fled they covered their trail so well that the police could find no clue to their whereabouts.

The couple left in Tustin's automobile, with only $75 in cash between them. When they reached New York, their funds had reached such a low ebb that Tustin was obliged to sell his automobile for $50. Then they proceeded to Montreal where they remained for several days.

When he again found himself short of funds, Tustin wired to a relative in Medford for money. He then returned to Cambridge.

Mrs. Ford returned to her home, to find her husband gone and her two children in the care of relatives.

Ford, who left home in search of his wife, is believed to be in Montreal on her trail, ignorant of her return.

BANDITS BURN VICTIMS IN OIL IN CHINA

Peking, Dec. 7.—Bandits scoured the walls of Likawank in Southwest China. The attack occurred in mid-November. Details were delayed by the isolated position of Likawank. Led by the notorious Lao Yan Green, who has been terrorizing the region all along the Hunan-Szechwan border, the bandits swooped down on the town unexpectedly. Groups of townspeople were tied together, fetters were thrown over them and a match touched to set them on fire. The attack was reported as follows: "The bandits were the disfigured corpses that a big pit was dug and all who could be identified were dumped therein. A string of a thousand cash was paid for carrying each corpse to the pit."

Love Only Cry of Youth, Declares Accused Wife

MRS. BEVERLY D. HARRIS
Wife of New York banker, and once known as New York's best dressed woman who returns from Europe to fight husband's suit for annulment of marriage.

BARES DUAL LIFE OF HUSBAND WHO FLED

Albany, N. Y., Dec. 7.—Harry J. Reidy, former Pinkerton detective and bodyguard of governors and state officials at the State Capital, is in Ireland with $25,000 or more belonging to his wife and others, the police announced.

Explaining how Reidy slipped out of this country when the Adirondack waited last Saturday, police disclosed that Reidy, with a wife and ten children at Worcester, Mass., had married Miss Katherine O'Connell of Washington, a year ago, here.

"Reidy's trips" provided explanations of his absence to Mrs. Reidy and the children, one of whom is a child.

Northwestern, actress, the police said. Another "business trip" with immediate need of finance furnished the excuse by which Reidy is said to have borrowed the $25,000 of his own wife and asked for abroad.

FLEES WITH $25,000.

Only when the Washington woman arrived a Riverside Drive apartment in New York a few days ago did she learn her husband had been married.

Reidy is said to have taken with him a substantial sum of money and to have fled by train.

Mrs. Reidy will leave Albany today for Washington, D. C., where she will try to forget the tragic ending of her romance.

When Reidy and his wife No. 3 were married here a year ago last month he gave his age as thirty-three, she as thirty-eight. Subsequently they started housekeeping in Pittsfield, this city's most exclusive residential section.

DELICACY REVEALED.

Mrs. Reidy told Albany police that never once did she suspect her husband had ever been married before.

Reidy left Albany the middle of November on a business trip to New York City. He did not return until Thanksgiving Day, Mrs. Reidy accompanied by Detective John "Laughlin" of Albany, started a search for him. It was at the home of Mr. Reidy's father, West 101 St., that Mrs. Reidy learned her husband was the father of ten children.

Albany police later learned that Reidy had fled to Europe.

The resolution, which was presented to the president of the post, was adopted by a vote of 14 to 1.

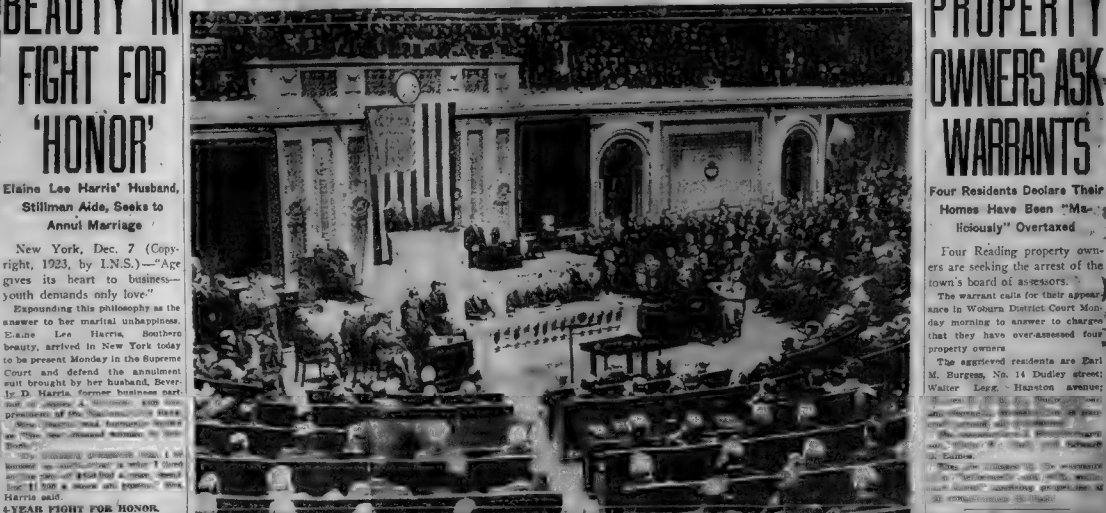

The resolution stated that the Coolidge administration was "unfavorable to the interests of the veterans of the world war."

BEAUTY IN FIGHT FOR 'HONOR'

Elaine Lee Harris' Husband, Stillman Aide, Seeks to Annul Marriage

New York, Dec. 7 (Copyright, 1923, by I.N.S.).—"Age gives its heart to business—youth demands only love."

Expounding this philosophy as the answer to her marital unhappiness, Elaine Lee Harris, Southern beauty, arrived in New York today to present motion in the Supreme Court and defend the annulment suit brought by her husband, Beverly D. Harris, former business partner of Joseph A. P. Harris, who was president of the Southern Railway System.

"My husband's mind was just a blank," she said.

"I have been accused of being the daughter of a Mississippi, and an outcast woman of Memphis. I do not think even my husband dared make this charge—other charges are made for that."

Previously Mrs. Harris had claimed to be the niece of Raynor, who from her sixteenth birthday accompanied her on many travels. Later she said Raynor was "just a friend of the family."

"I didn't want the world to know that they have tried the 1d off my mother's coffin," she said.

4-YEAR FIGHT FOR HONOR.

"Now I am penniless, tradesman heading the judgments, and I will be unable to continue much longer the four-year fight I have made for my honor."

The strikingly attractive southern beauty, who sought with the draw of the Loss of Mississippi from which she says she comes, is registered at three New York hotels.

"I wanted to avoid publicity," she said, explaining the name "Mrs. P. Harris" at the Mrs. Lee Harris, who was a girl when I married, but rather as a shopkeeper dresses his show window."

"BUSINESS ASSET."

"A beautiful wife in the drawing room is a business asset. That is what I was. I was a girl when I married, but rather as a shopkeeper dresses his show window."

"I loved him, loved him so I could keep nothing from him, and so I told him the true story of my life. My mother was Daisy Ann Lee, wife of S. C. Lee of Charleston, Tenn. My husband died. Eli Raynor of Memphis met my mother two years later. I am the child of that love, and I told my husband so."

Mrs. Harris produced a letter she says was written to her by her husband before her marriage. It read in part:

"You are a love child, and to you God gave the greatest gift, beauty. For your eyes the sky was made. For your face the sun was made. For your hair the stars were made. For your smile the moon was made."

"That," Mrs. Harris insists, "should prove I did not deceive."

"But after marriage—well, my husband was a man of wealth and I was just a rich man's wife, a bird in a gilded cage, imprisoned, with no freedom, and I was told."

"A child, I longed to be loved. I

NEAR DEATH IN HIS EFFORT TO STOP RUNAWAY

His attempt to stop a runaway horse today may cost David J. Davis, twenty-seven, of No. 217 Dunbar street, Lynn, his life. Davis is in Somerville Hospital with a broken hip as a result of his heroism.

Davis was repairing his automobile in front of Steve's battery station on Elm street, near Russell street, when a horse, owned by J. P. Hood & Son, and driven by William F. Ryan of No. 123 Broadway street, Arlington, was drawn up in front of a blacksmith shop nearby.

The horse attached to the wagon became frightened at something and suddenly bolted.

Seeing the outfit racing up the street Davis ran out to head the runaway off. The horse kicked him down and stepped on him. The wheels of the wagon passed over his body. A passing autoist took Davis to Somerville Hospital.

The horse continued on its way, up Elm street, but was stopped near Chestnut street by Thomas McElmish, a letter carrier.

Bill Would Defray Mothers' Trips to Soldiers' Graves

Washington, Dec. 7.—Members of the 36,389 American soldiers buried in France, may visit the graves of their sons at government expense, should a resolution introduced by Representative Samuel Dickstein of New York pass.

Representative Dickstein's resolution proposes that all mothers willing to undertake the pilgrimage, but unable to do so at their own expense, shall be transported on government ships.

Harry Weiner was the only man when they got in. He will discuss a charge of carrying liquor with intent to sell when he faces the judge.

One other 200 gallon vat was in process of being set up. Everything pointed to getting ready for the Christmas trade. One hundred gallons of what the police say is good beer was seized.

LYNN BREWERY UNCOVERED IN EARLY DAWN

It was a dark and gloomy morning at 8 o'clock.

Police Sergeant John Healey of Lynn was patrolling Melrose avenue when—there was a familiar odor.

He peeked in a window of what had been an ice cream plant. Where had been frezers were buried vats and things for making beer. There were two vats of 100-gallon capacity and four men of unknown capacity.

Sergeant Healey sent in a call for the raiding squad. They responded and Sergeant McLaughlin assisted him in leading the charge.

HONOR DISCHARGE FOR 'DRAFT DROGGER'

Joseph Toranant, of No. 13 Church street, Watertown, charged with draft evasion, was honorably discharged from that charge today at army base, South Boston, when it was discovered he had served with valor during the World War in the second battalion of the American Legion from July 3, 1917, to May 8, 1919.

NAMES SAYERS IN RIGOROUS MURDER

District Attorney Arthur C. Reading of Middlesex County today made public the names of two men, whom he declares were the real murderers of John B. Goudard of Marlboro in the "redneck murder mystery" last August.

District Attorney Reading said he was seeking Gabriel Portello and Otto Landi.

"He quashed the murder indictment pending against Bernard Martino and Hugo Badi, who have been under arrest since the crime."

No indication, although these men were returned, however charging them with being accessory after the fact in the Goudard murder, and with conspiracy to rob Dennis Mahan of Lawrence, $1,000 and twenty-four cases of liquor.

District Attorney Reading said Martino and Badi were members of a gang of hijackers when included the murders. Their plan of operation was to plot their raids and then rob the bootleggers of both the money and liquor at the rendezvous.

This, he said, was what happened in Marlboro the night Goudard was shot.

CHILD KILLED BY FALL OUT WINDOW

Four-year-old Alma Abbott of No. 47 Warren street, Boston, was instantly killed when she fell from the third story window of her home, a distance of fifty feet.

A passing autoist picked up the child and took her to the City Hospital, where she pronounced dead on arrival.

MUNDELIN AND HAYES MAY BE CARDINALS

Rome, Dec. 7 (A.P.)—According to authentic sources in the Vatican it is considered possible that Archbishop Mundelin of Chicago and Hayes of New York will be elevated to the cardinalate in the coming year.

It is believed that together with several other bishops and archbishops, the American prelates will be considered for the honor.

It is known, according to the same authorities, that no foreign cardinal will be created at forthcoming consistory on December 10. Definite assurance as to who will receive the red hat was lacking in view of the reserve maintained by the Pope.

The fact that Archbishop Mundelin of Chicago will be elevated, which was reported yesterday, may have resulted from the elevation of Hayes to cardinal.

Archbishops Mundelin and Hayes, might choose another.

GIRL HAS "SEEN ENOUGH"; WILL SELL HER EYES

New York, Dec. 7 (C.N.S.)—This letter from a girl was received today by the editor of the New York Evening Journal:

"I have used them for twenty-three years and were of good service. I think I saw more than enough of the world and give a chance to anyone who can pay no more to live the rest of my days in darkness."

"Kindly have the answers sent to you. I shall call on Saturday a year hence. I am sending a notice of my eye."

"Thanking you heartily."

HIGH LIVERS IN BAVARIA TO SUFFER LOSS OF HOMES

Berlin, Dec. 7. — Dictator Von Kahr is determined to enforce the simple life among wealthy Bavarians.

From within his barricaded house in Munich, which he has not left since the Hitler-Ludendorff coup, the dictator believes this threat will be more of a deterrent than his sentence.

THIRD ARTICLE DESCRIBES WIRING OF BABY SUPERNUTRODYNE

EASIEST OF SUPERSTORY TO WIRE

All Connections Given in Detail for the Complete Unit

This is the third in the new series of articles describing the Supernutrodyne family. The first of the family is the Baby Super, intended for use with any detector or detector-two-stage amplifier unit. The second article told of the circuit diagram, the list of parts, the panel layout, and the present describes the wiring. Tomorrow we will tell you how to send and mount your own R. F. transformer and how to connect in your own set with the Baby Super.

By M. A. SIMMONS, Inventor of the Supernutrodyne. Second U. S. Patent Office, Copyright, 1923, by M. A. Simmons.

The Baby Super is easiest of all the Super family to wire. You have already seen with article No. 1, and the panel layout, published yesterday. Have them in front of you now.

From the binding post at the left of the panel, marked "GROUND," connect a length of rubber wire which will run under it from the post, along the panel back for about two inches, before turning at right angles, 45 degrees between the condenser and the lower end of the A plus binding post, and the other binding post of the rheostat with the filament plus terminal of the second.

Next mount the condenser in the former angle as shown in the picture. From the plate terminal of the tube socket, connect one binding post of the rheostat to the left of the panel, marked "ANTENNA," run a wire to the primary terminal of the first R. F. unit at the upper end of the primary coil.

From the plate terminal of the tube socket, connect a wire to the primary, upper end, of the second coil-condenser unit. From the lower end of this same primary in the second coil-condenser unit, run a wire to the B plus 50 volt binding post.

FLATTEN THE TUBES. The minus filament binding post must be connected with this last lead through the .01 fixed, bypass condenser.

THIS SHOWS SYSTEM OF WIRING IN BABY SUPERNUTRODYNE

VIEW OF SET FROM TOP LOOKING DIRECTLY DOWN IN THE "WORKS" Here is a glimpse at the "works" of the Baby Super, drawn to give you an idea of the arrangement of the wiring diagram in somewhat clearer fashion than can be done in a wiring diagram, or a panel layout. You are looking right down into the set. Although this gives you a better idea of the wiring arrangement, it is always best to check your wiring from the wiring diagram.

THIS DRAWING INDICATES the position of the radio frequency transformer coils. They should be mounted with the plate lead of the primary at the top of the panel, and the B battery, 90 volt lead at the bottom. The primary is in the upper end of the secondary. The upper secondary lead connects with the rotor of the condenser, and thence to the minus filament. For the first transformer primary the upper primary lead connects with the antenna binding post, and the other primary lead with the ground binding post.

ALL RADIO FANS SHOULD SIGN PETITION

Sign the petition to President Coolidge and add force to his recommendation to Congress to pass laws restricting interference with broadcasts.

Don't let any commercial operator tell you the American people can be thwarted by some outfit interested only in securing the last square inch of the eagle on the dollar. If enough persons protest vigorously enough, Congress will hop to it, and the "public be damned" attitude of the commercial stations and their operators will change mighty soon.

This attitude is expressed in a letter from an operator in Winthrop. In his letter he says:

"If some of you boys would learn to copy code and make words out of 'boller noises' you will find that they're most all important messages and cut behind just cause we want to hear a real time story or some canned music."

That is just where he is wrong. The message is important, and it is some individual's pocketbook, and dam the public. But the simplest and most important thing is more important than all the private profit messages that clutter up the ether today.

The sad part of it is that it attunes to the store of wrath and ill will gathering up in the public mind against them that amount of advertising and no extreme of audience story, interesting housewife, the tide of public opinion once again.

The railroads in the United States spent thousands trying to overcome the same hostility manifested by a similar attitude on their part when they were sitting pretty. Now look at their today.

RAILROADS I'VE LEARNED LESSON.

This same protesting condition, "I have got to hear of any reason why there should be a chance and as to what or remedial action. Don't mind if I put this in heavy type. JUT."

He signs his name, name, street address and call letters, as well as his station letters. In a few weeks he'll be glad we didn't print them for him after he hears the roar of the public, hunting snakes of commercial station companies. (H) Please, Ed.

So sign up, and give this operator the best reason in the world why personal profit must be subordinated.
